Topic: A day in my Dream world

Title: MINECRAFT

One fine day I was coming back from school and saw a portal that was fully built, lit and also it had a tag that said "MINECRAFT" so decided to jump in.

Few moments later I was in a mysterious world that was all blocky then, I remembered the tag so I realized that I was actually inside the Minecraft world ! Well suddenly I heard a guy yelled "HIIII" to me so I said hi and also asked him where I was. But, the first thing that he asked me was if I knew who he was and I said NO! Then, he gave me a hint he yelled "I'm your best friend" then I asked him if I could just call him buddy instead? And he said okay so I ran towards him. Then once again I asked him where I was and he said you mean us? And I Shaked my head yes and he replied back we're in Minecraft! And that's when I got super excited.

So he led me to his house and we had some cookies and cake. Then, I asked him if he minds if I come back after a while because I have to build a big mansion and he said "sure no problem". After lot of hardwork I built my own big mansion but suddenly I heard giant footsteps coming towards my mansion and when I opened the door I saw a humongous monster which was 1,000,000 times my size. And moments later my hard worked mansion was destroyed in a matter of seconds. So I ran to my "Buddy" and warned him that a humongous monster destroyed my mansion and next was his house! So quickly he crafted a boat for both of us and was planning to run off to somewhere across the ocean and right when we got out of his house the monster broke my friend's house next. When the sunlight hit my face I squinted and saw a label on his body and it said

"The most fearsome monster in the whole world" so I got super surprised and told my friend and he immediately placed the boats down and we both escaped safely.
Moments later,we heard villagers crying out for help because the monster was heading towards the villagers houses. We knew that we had to save them so he said "dude that's the monster that destroyed our mansions" and I replied I know so that's why I'm going to craft 2 full sets of diamond armor and also a sword using the 5 stacks of diamonds that he gave me. After we were all prepared we headed to the village and the villagers followed us. After we reached, the monster was just about to break a villagers house and since I had some obsidian in my inventory I placed on top of the monsters leg and it almost broke the monster's leg so I realized the monster is weak to obsidian. I told my friend that we have to beat him before he recovers so we started swinging our swords! After few hours of battle between myself and the monster, it fell down and as the villagers were thanking me for the great help,I suddenly woke up from my bed and I realized that it was all a Dream !! ufff... I really wish Im able to save the people on this Earth one day just like it happened in my dream.