On winter days at home, I like to draw. I color flowers and birds and animals. The colors of the markers make the animals in the picture come to life.

I would also bake with my mom. I pretend to be a baker, and I put on an apron. We make bread and muffins and pancakes. It feels magical.

Then my sister and I play board games. We play backgammon, battleship, and chess. We are sailors at sea battling for land. We are knights fighting to capture the king and take the throne. We are pieces trying to get home.

After my adventures, I watch a movie with my family. I like to snuggle with my mom and drink hot coco. It feels cozy, and I go to bed with joy and happiness.
