

What Keeps Me Safe

Once upon a time, while I was sleeping, Owl Monster came to my bed to take me away. Owl Monster has an owl face, big nails, large wings, and a huge stomach. Owl Monster takes kids away and is very powerful. After taking the child he eats them or turns them into another Owl Monster. It makes me scared because more Owl Monsters make the world a scarier place. But when Owl monster came to take me, my mom hugged me tight and drove Owl Monster away (Parents have powers too!).

Another time, my family was getting in the car and then we saw a dog in the arroyo but, it was a coyote. Coyotes look like dogs and love to attack little kids. Since my parents were near the car and I was standing with my mom, I was protected.

I love my parents. They are my guard, and shelter because they keep monsters and coyotes away from me. Also, on a snowy day they make me warm and cozy by snuggling me. I feel relaxed because my parents protect and keep me safe. It gives more chances to accomplish my dreams.

A world without parents, home or family, would be lonely, and scary. I would only have friends, and poor education. I would learn nothing, be sick, hungry, poor, tired, and won't survive in calamities like floods, attacks or war, and suffer in life.
