

STARS AND STRIPES

By: Fazal Ali Dhala

Everyone was getting ready for the 250th Anniversary of America. There were fireworks and flags everywhere!

Meanwhile, Harry the Bald Eagle was flying to the White House. He took the flag from the front and flew off. Then, he flew over New York while the people below were singing “God Bless America”!

Freedom means having fun for everyone! Everyone around the globe deserves it too because it’s the best thing in the whole world!

Crack! The fireworks have started! Harry enjoyed watching the celebrations from above. For Harry it meant one thing, flying. So, he started to fly. He flew through the fireworks. He flew and flew until he was too tired to fly. Harry had a fun day. He ended his day in a forest in New Jersey. He was grateful to celebrate his freedom too!
